KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING 🔥🔥🔥

Hello everyone, I hope you all all healthy and well today. In normal circumstances the Leaving Certificate would be starting today and we would be on a count down to Lourdes. With that in mind I have a exam themed resource for you this week! I hope you will enjoy it! As ever please let me know if you have any good news for me or if you come across any good ideas worth sharing! You can send me an email: aoife.walsh@limerickdiocese.org or text me: 0852527465. Stay Safe everyone x

Fáilte 🔥 HOW YOU CAN BE A PERSON OF WELCOME THIS WEEK

I know you're probably all over this already but if you haven't done it yet then thank your teachers! Let's be clear this isn't a bribe, but it is really good for teachers to get some feedback, especially about the things they do well. A nice way of doing it is to write a letter and tell them what you enjoyed most about their class. Trust me, it will mean more to them than a box of chocolates!

You could also thank your class mates for all the fun, memories and goodtimes shared over the years. I know you can do this on social media put it might be nice to set up a shared album with your class group so that everyone can contribute to it.

Whatever way you chose to do it though it is important that you should try to mark this moment in a positive way because it is a milestone for you and all your classmates.

Foghlaim 🔥 TAKE TIME TO LEARN

In movie recommendations this week I wracked my brain for "Coming of Age" or "School" movies. This is what I came up with, they might not be the most intellectual of movies but they have a lot of heart and at their core they're all about friendship and especially the friends we make in school. how nice though to watch a movie because it makes you laugh and feel good and not because it's on the comparative list!

Please note that some of these films are not suitable for audiences under the age of 18

- Booksmart - Probably the most recent release, I saw it in the cinema and nearly choked on popcorn from laughing too much.
- Juno - A cautionary whale! Great Soundtrack!
- Clueless / Mean Girls - Umh like what can I say? I'm totally buggin! And on Wednesday's we wear pink! And youdon't even go here!
- Ferris Bueller's Day Off - It's a little childish and stupid but then again so is High School! I cannot express how much I love this movie.
- Superbad - I am McLovin! Anything that can go wrong will go wrong, but you'll laugh your way through it!
- Dead Poet's Society - Oh Captain, my Captain! Who doesn't love Robin Williams??

Guí 🔥 TAKE TIME TO PRAY

In the name of the Father...

Mother Teresa said God speaks in the silence of the heart, so we take a moment now to be silent as we begin to pray. (Sit quietly for a moment or two and just focus on your breath)

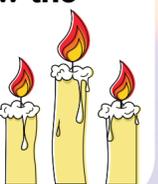

One night a house caught fire and a young boy was sitting on a window ledge. His father stood on the ground below with his arms outstretched, calling to his son. "Jump! I'll catch you!" he shouted, but the boy was frozen with fear. He called to him again "Jump Danny!" But all little Danny could see was smoke and flames and he stayed rooted to the window ledge.

"Why won't you jump Danny?" his father pleaded with him. "Because I can't see you Daddy!" his son said. At which point his father reassuringly replied, "But I can see you Danny and that's the most important thing".

It's easy to have trust when things are going well but when things are difficult it becomes a much harder task. Yet this is what faith is, it is believing that God has a plan and that we will always be protected and looked after. We pray today for the courage to trust. We pray that the efforts and hard work of all students will be recognised and rewarded. We pray for our teachers, that they will be fair and conscientious in their assessments and that they will receive the support they need.

God grant us the serenity to accept the things we cannot change, the courage to change the things we can, and the wisdom to know the difference.

Our prayer has ended;
In the name of the Father...

KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING 🔥🔥🔥

Each figure differs from the other three by one extra detail. Can you spot all four extra details?

There are 30 squares here of various sizes. Remove nine matchsticks, so that no squares exist at all.

Police Officer Friendly's informer Slippery Sid, is none too helpful when it comes to pointing out which of various colourful characters keeps their car behind which coloured garage door. The only thing we do know is that no garage door has either a door, car, or an owner's name with the same colour in it. From Sid's statement see if you can fill in the form correctly!

Owner
Car Make
Car Colour

Mr Brown's car, which is next to both the BMW and the black one, is not the Fiat, which is next to both the brown car and Mr Whites's. The Volvo is two places to the right of the grey car and the Audi which is not Mr White's is two places to the left of Mr Grey's car. There are also both a red and green car, Mr Black and Mr Green are the other two owners and the final make of car is a Ford.

Twelve L shapes like the ones below have been fitted into a rectangular shape. Each L has one hole, and there are three of each type in the rectangle. No two pieces of the same type are adjacent, even at a corner. They fit together so well that the spaces between pieces do not show. From the locations of the holes, can you tell where each L is?
